Biographical Profile

Vaneese Johnson knows about “Grassroots Options for your Life Success”! She is the founder of On The Move Staffing Services—a temporary staffing company, serving the diverse community of San Francisco. Effective account management of clients has rendered more than $1M in sales for the past 4 years with numerous awards and accolades. Vaneese is one of the industries most sought after persons due to her enthusiastic personality and effective communication skills

Spending the first eighteen years of her life growing up in rural Louisiana, she was taught how to use the land, faith, family, community, communication and education to help her make grounded moves in her life decisions. She affectionately calls these tools her “grass seeds”! When she relocated to Northern California’s opportunity filled Bay Area, she unpacked her “grass seeds” and began to plant and tend her life garden.

Vaneese is achieving both personal and professional career success by creating her path as an entrepreneur, community leader, small business teacher/trainer and inspirational speaker. Her grassroots efforts have been acknowledge by awards from the SF Mayor’s Office of Persons with Disabilities, 100 Black Women for Entrepreneur of the Year, Inner City 100 Businesses to Watch for 2004, NCSDC’s Supplier of the Year and a host of other awards and acknowledgements.

Vaneese’s down home message (infused with her life experiences) of how to get your life garden ready by sharing with you how to identify your personal grassroots options, how to create your community, how to gather your resources and how to move your steps into action leaves the listeners encouraged and charged to develop the green thumb they need for good life gardening! Her messages inspire women of all ages to use what you have and create the rest!

Vaneese holds an Associate of Arts degree form Vista Jr. College in Berkeley California, UCLA Management Development for Entrepreneurs and Kellogg School of Management-Advanced Management Education Program both in 2003. She also attended entrepreneurial training classes at Harvard Business School for the Inner City 100. She has been recognized in Black Enterprise magazine, Professional Black Women’s Inc. magazine, and a host of other publications.
